Personal first aid for the New Zealand outdoors

Heading out on a Great Walk, hunting trip or multi-day tramp? This compact personal kit brings together practical essentials for common incidents outdoors. It includes supplies for wound cleaning and dressing, minor cuts, basic pain relief and warmth, with an emergency trauma bandage for more serious bleeding. Packed in a durable Sea to Summit dry bag, it is easy to store in your pack and helps protect contents from the weather while you are on the move. The bright orange bag is easy to spot among your gear, while the dry-bag format helps shield supplies from rain and splashes. Designed for one person, it is a handy addition to your personal outdoor gear. Taken together, the trauma bandage and cohesive wrap support dressing needs, while plasters, wipes and gauze swabs are useful for minor cuts and scrapes. Gloves, basic pain relief and an emergency foil blanket round out the personal essentials. All contents travel together inside the bright orange dry bag. The pouch is easy to identify and keeps supplies together, so you are not searching for loose items through your pack. For day walks and longer trips alike, stow the kit with your personal essentials where it is easy to reach.
